For Immediate Release

Wellington Drive Technologies (NZ:WDT) announces a major global beverage brand's approval to supply its SCS Connect solution.

Wellington Drive Technologies is pleased to announce that following the conclusion of a global beverage brand's comprehensive technology sourcing process it has been selected as an approved supplier of connectivity hardware for use in the brand's coolers. This approval allows Wellington to supply its SCS Connect solution to the brand's network of cooler manufacturers and beverage bottling partners and follows the earlier announcement of the brand's terms and conditions having being signed.

It should be noted that this approval does not indicate preferred status or determine a minimum level of business; the customer's network is free to choose from a short list of approved connectivity suppliers, including Wellington.

Wellington continues to work with the brand and its network partners to establish the timing of programmes to adopt SCS Connect and the volumes Wellington will supply over the coming twelve months.

Wellington CEO Greg Allen commented, "We are excited to be selected by this global customer as a connectivity supplier. This is the next step in the customer's adoption project and we will be working diligently to support the adoption process over the coming twelve months. Our focus continues to be on further innovation of the SCS Connect platform and growing manufacturing capacity and field support capability to support the development of this new and exciting business."
